

The Breindeer's Christmaths Quiz

6

Prancer was helping Santa to get the presents down the chimney at one particular house when he spotted a note. The children had left the note saying that all the girls would like a calculator each and all the boys would like a mathematics book each. They left Prancer and Santa this riddle to solve.

The girls have twice as many sisters as brothers and the boys have five times as many sisters as brothers.

'Just what we need, at this time of night as well!' both Prancer and Santa thought.

How many calculators and how many books do Prancer and Santa need to leave for the children?
