

The Breindeer's Christmaths Quiz

Dancer was in charge of tickets for the Christmas Disco. He'd spent a lot of time designing and printing the tickets before realising he'd forgotten to number them. It was important that they were numbered because Dancer was donating one of his best presents as a raffle prize. He decided to write the numbers on by hand. Once this task was completed, Dancer, accompanied by Santa, got the bus into town and began selling the tickets. They didn't take the sleigh because they didn't want to be recognised.
