

The Breindeer's Christmaths Quiz

Rudolph, Santa and the rest of the reindeers returned home late on Christmas Day morning, shattered after their busy night. Before having a nap, they decided to have a piece of the Christmas cake that Rudolph had somehow found time to bake the day before. Santa was full after all the mince pies he'd eaten during the night and Rudolph himself never seemed to be hungry on Christmas day - upset that his present delivering was over for another year.

'Cheer up, it'll soon be red nose day,' Santa chortled. Rudolph ignored him and began to work out how he was going to cut the cylindrical cake into 8 equal pieces - same size, same shape. 'I bet you can't manage it with only 3 cuts,' Santa challenged. Show Rudolph how this can be done.
